intergenerational transmission has a conservative aspect tradition being what is actually and presently transmitted from the past and or what is considered worthwhile to be passed on on the other hand acknowledging the activity of students themselves as a prerequisite for any education to happen brings the open endedness and therefore the future into the pedagogical arena in terms of development learning reflection edification et cetera so the question answered in this volume is what does this inherent historicity mean for religious education as well as for the concept religion and religious diversity in answering this question the contributions represent the global character of the concern with religious diversity in relation to religious education and originate respectively from the following countries canada bhikkhu english united states moran latvia ilishko russia kozyrev germany piner south africa roux du preez ferguson japan omori australia de souza turkey selçuk and the netherlands meijer miedema
